CURRENT RESEARCH IN FOURTEENTH-CENTURY MUSIC INTERNATIONAL GRADUATE AND POSTGRADUATE CONFERENCE

Coordinated by Antonio Calvia, Michele Epifani and Daniele Sabaino online, March 8, 2021

Current Research in Fourteenth-Century Music is an interdisciplinary meeting which aims to include papers by graduate and postgraduate students in all areas of musicology, particularly music palaeography, music history, music analysis, music philology, music theory, music iconography and, broadly, research on music and literature.

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Department of Musicology and Cultural Heritage of the University of Pavia, Campus of Cremona, as part of the ERC funded project

"European Ars Nova: Multilingual Poetry and Polyphonic Song in the Late Middle Ages", graduates and postgraduates to submit short papers (max. 20 minutes) to the Current Research in Fourteenth-Century Music

INVITES

International Graduate and Postgraduate Conference, hosted online on March 8, 2021

Topics include all areas of musicology applied to fourteenth-century music:

- music palaeography (including music notation theory and history)
- music theory
- music history
- music analysis
- music philology
- music iconography
- relations between music and literature

Students are strongly encouraged to submit abstracts

The conference aims to stimulate a friendly environment in which graduate and postgraduate students can speak about their current research in every aspect of fourteenth-century music to an audience of other students and researchers.

Submission requirements

Please send an abstract (no more than 250 words) and a document containing: title of the paper, name, email, address, and affiliation.

Abstract submission (by January 24, 2021)

Please send an email to: antonio.calvia@unipv.it.

Acceptance of abstracts (by January 31, 2021)

The acceptance of papers will be communicated by email by January 31, 2021.

Conference (March 8, 2021)

The conference will be held online through the Zoom platform.
